

Brian Katz, Real Estate Professional Extraordinaire

Nearly a quarter century into his career in the real estate industry, Brian Katz has managed to steadily and strategically build valuable portfolios for both his past employers and his own companies. The CEO and co founder of American Real Estate Partners in the Beltway area, Brian Katz has a parlayed his commercial real estate experience into an ethical wealth building tool for all involved in his business ventures. In an era when real estate sounds like a dirty term, conjuring up images of sub prime loans, unethical lenders, and overvalued properties, Brian katz and his ilk have taken a far more prudent and conservative approach to building their various enterprises.

It is this overarching commitment to ethics, mathematics, and fiduciary responsibility that keeps the properties in the portfolio of Brian Katz and American Real Estate Partners beautiful, desirable, and profitable year in and year out. A man who earned his Masters degree in real estate from the prestigious Johns Hopkins University while simultaneously working full time in the same demanding industry, Brian Katz has long been known as a man with a strong drive and even stronger talent in his chosen field. Long known as one of the top real estate brokers in the Washington, D.C. area even before co founding American Real Estate Partners, Katz is a man who rarely shies away from a challenge, and is known as a force to be reckoned with in the Mid Atlantic region.

Having begun his career as a rising star in a regional development firm, Brian Katz soon thereafter found himself with the title of Senior Director for the commercial real estate brokerage division of Cushman and Wakefield, leasing and selling many millions of square feet of real estate in the process.

Today, American Real Estate Partners and Katz himself have outgrown even the mighty Beltway region to include real estate holdings throughout the Eastern seaboard. And neither Katz nor his company show signs of slowing down any time soon!
